Let's Start!

Many people love to shop in their free time. Do you?

Learning Outcome

Accurately use information about people, their likes and dislikes, homes or countries in communicative situations.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about different types of stores.
- I can talk about clothing and accessories.
- I can ask and say what people are doing.

Ask your partner:

- Do you like shopping? Why or why not?
- What kind of things do you like shopping for?

Let's Explore!

Sally asks John to go shopping with her. What is his response?

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Sally: Hi John! I'm going shopping at the new outlet mall.
John: Shopping? Again?
Sally: Yes! I love shopping. I want to get some new clothes.
John: What stores does the mall have?
Sally: Oh, there are lots of stores. Clothing and accessories, shoes, sports ...
John: Is there a hardware store or a pharmacy?
Sally: No! Want to come?
John: Sure ... I guess ...
John: This is a nice store. I'm finding nice things in this casual wear department.
Sally: Do you like these jeans?
John: They're OK. Are you trying them on?
Sally: Yes. I'm trying them on with this T-shirt.
John: I'm trying on this sweatshirt.
Sally: Why don't you try this hoodie? Excuse me, can I try these leather boots?
Clerk: Sure.

Let's Practice!

What can you buy in a pharmacy? Let's review types of stores.

Instructions: Match the store on the left with the items you can buy there on the right.

Learning Points

Types of Stores

Stores are places you buy things. There are many different types of stores. Different countries have different types of stores.

In Europe, many stores are often specialized - they sell a small number of things:

bakery - bread
pastry shop - pastries
pharmacy (drugstore) - medication
perfumery - perfume
butcher shop - meat

In North America, stores are more generalized - they sell many things:

grocery store - fruits, vegetables, meat, bread, etc.
supermarket - a large grocery store convenience store (corner store) - milk, bread, candy, newspapers, etc.
hardware store - nails, tools, cleaning supplies, etc.
department store - clothing, furniture, shoes, perfume, etc.
outlet stores - large stores that get items directly from the company that makes them
